NEWS

THE EAGLE HAS LANDED

You've seen shoot 'em ups on your Game Boy. And platform games. And puzzlers. But now it's the turn of the flight simulation! And who better to create such a title on the little Nintendo than sim specialists Microprose? Having done the job on home computers, they've moved into handhelds with the imminent completion of F15 Strike Eagle, a game based upon one of their biggest hits of the mid-Eighties.

Surprise surprise, you control an F15 jet fighter, equipped with the latest weapons technology. Go up against the enemy in an assortment of real-life scenarios, including Libya and the Persian Gulf. Take out the primary and secondary targets assigned by your commander then return to your aircraft carrier for screams of adulation and slaps on the back from your colleagues.

Microprose are stressing that this is a 'flying game' as opposed to a straight flight simulator and, indeed, the need to remove the keypresses usually so prominent in Microprose's games has meant that arcade action has had to come to the fore. We'll be bringing you the Exclusive GO! Review of F15 Strike Eagle next month, so prepare to put on your bomber jacket and starched scarf and shout 'Tally Ho, Chaps!'

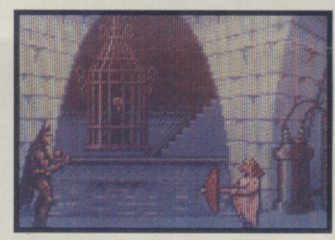
SONIC-IN GLORIOUS LCD!

TIGER ELECTRONIC
SONIC THE HEDGEHOG
SEGA

Now you can play Sonic without having to own a Sega machine! The spikey blue star now has his own hand-held LCD game, courtesy of Grnadstand. Battle against the despicable Doctor Robotnik as you attempt to rescue the woodland animals he's kidnapped across six levels, avoiding such hazards as fire, volcanoes, spikes and enemy robots both on land and above water!

Sonic The Hedgehog is part of the Tiger range from Grandstand and costs £19.99. Look out for it in toy shops across the land!

HOLY BAT PACKS!



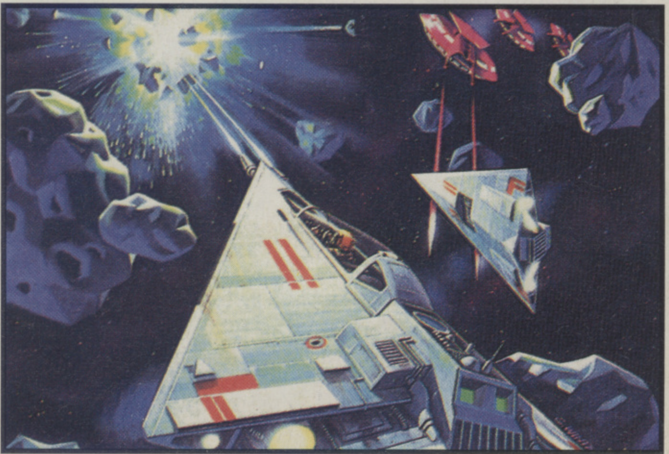
So it turns out that the Batman Returns movie, starring Michael Keaton, Danny de Vito and Michelle Pfeiffer isn't all that hot. That hasn't stopped Silica from putting together a rather neat promotion pack though. The Atari Lynx Batman Returns Pack is the name of the bundle, and for your £99.99 you get a really great deal including an Atari Lynx and - guess what - a copy of the Batman Returns cart!

Silica are reckoning on this bundle sailing out of the door - and why not? After all, the Batman Returns game is a far sight better than the film, scoring a more than reasonable 83% when we reviewed it last ish!

POCKET RELIEF FROM ACCOLADE

So you've wanted to rush out and buy a top game for your hand-held, only to discover that you're skint and can't afford the whacking twenty-five quid-plus price point? Well don't fret - for it seems as though companies are coming round to the idea of 'charge less, sell more'!

The first company to knock down their prices is Accolade, who are very generously putting out their classic coin-op conversions at a price even tinkers couldn't turn up their noses at. Basically, you can pick up Asteroids, Centipede and the best of the bunch, Missile Command, at a scandalously low £19.99! No doubt loads will be sold and, with a bit of luck, other companies will follow suit and hack off a few pence from their products!



CES-SA

GAMES! GAMES! GAMES! Zillions of amazing hand-held goodies were on show at the recent CES in Chicago, with some top titles lined up for gaming on the go! So what does the world's greatest hand-held mag do about that, eh? We list the lot, that's what! Some of these games are brill, some are crap and some may never appear at all - but inside this list is everything you'll be playing for the next year or so. Let's GO!

MAILBAG

Those letters and piccies just keep on-a-comin' in droves! Welcome to GO! Mailbag; the place for you to air your views on what's hot and what's not about portable playing! The Sega vs Nintendo battle rages on, but a few of you would rather live in hand-held harmony!

What do you think? Why not tell everyone, by jotting down your opinions on a slip of paper and posting them to: PLEASE POSTIE, PROHIBIT PURLOINING OF THIS PROSE, PRESENT IT TO GO! MAILBAG, GO!, PRIORY COURT, 30-32 FARRINGDON LANE, LONDON EC1R 3AU. Just think - you could have your name in the world's best hand-held mag - and even win some software if your letter's the absolute tops!

ENLIGHTEN ME, WILL YOU NOT

Dear GO!,

Please would you answer my questions:

1. Do you know if there will be a wrestling game coming out for my Game Gear?
2. If there is, when will it be released?
3. Is it true that Double Dragon and Paperboy are going to be released on Gear?
4. I am thinking of getting Shadow Dancer, Mercs and Golden Axe for my Master Gear - are any of these games crap?
5. Will Sonic 2 be released on Gear?

By the way, someone wrote in saying that, after a few years, the Game Gear's screen goes blurry, but my Gear dealer said it could be mended. So there, Game Boy owner.

I think your mag is the best in the world and the Game Gear is the best hand-held in the world. Keep up the good work!

COLIN CALLANAN,
Co Sligo, Ireland

1. Yesiree - WWF is on its way to the GG.

2. Not until early next year.

3. You know your games - both are coming on Gear.

4. Paperboy should be here in a couple of months - a bit longer for Billy and Jimmy to show their faces.

5. It sure will be - check out the News!

WHINING WALLABY

Dear GO!,

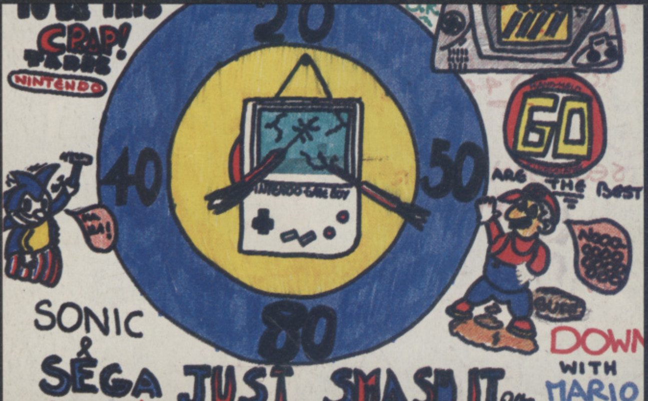
Why do things always come so late to Australia? For instance, by the time the May issue of GO! gets here it's already half way through June! And the PC Engine GT still isn't available Down Under - neither is the Lynx 2! So by the time this letter gets to you, I'll probably be 21 years old!

BEN GRUNDY,
NSW, Australia



Guess what - Daniel Stevens of Ampthill, Beds, is more than a little keen on the Sega Game Gear. You'd never guess, would you.

STOP WHINGING, YOU SAD CASES

Dear GO!,

Dear me, the letters you're getting are so uptight and boring! It's like every hand-held owner is a five year old. I originally owned a Game Boy which was great until it broke so I got a Lynx. Both are excellent machines and I don't see what the fuss is about. Every hand-held has its down side:

The Lynx's lack of software.
The Game Boy's small, mono screen which blurs.
The Game Gear's cheap build and Master System type games which are looking dated.
The GT's high price.

But none of this actually spoils your gaming enjoyment, so all you miserable, sad, misguided fools can now take your heads from your asses and enjoy life.

One more thing - with the Lynx's lack of software, is its future assured against the Game Boy and Game Gear?

JON BEVERIDGE,
Hastings, E Sussex

It looks as though Atari are finally getting their act together as far as software releases are concerned - there's a ton of top stuff planned for the long term, so don't worry about game-lack problems.

CARMEN'S CRACKERS 1

Dear GO!,

I am writing in reference to Carmen De Bougonniere's letter in issue 9 of your brilliant mag. Carmen seems to think that the Game Boy is the best hand-held in the world. Now I did have a Game Boy (although I'm saving for a Game Gear) so I think I'm in a good position to comment. Certainly, the Game Boy does have a lot of good games, but so does the Game Gear. Also, unless you hadn't realised, the Game Gear has a great colour screen.

I'm not saying the Game Boy is really sad, I'm just pointing out the fact that it is not the best hand-held. I decided to get a Game Gear because it was worrying me that, when the colour Game Boy arrives the black and white Game Boy might be discontinued and all new games stopped. I like both machines but, for me, the Game Gear has the edge.

BEN WINNARD,
Formby, Merseyside

WHAT'S A WIDE BOY?

Dear GO!,

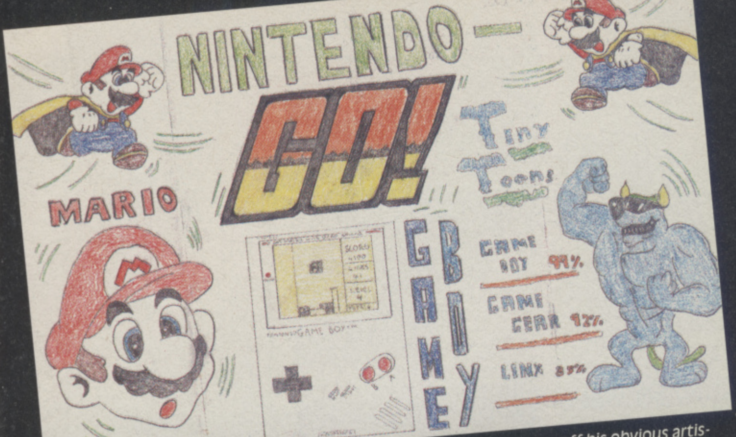
I was reading through issue eight of your totally excellent, utterly cool, fabuloso, brilliant mag, when I spotted a letter entitled 'Strike A Light! Where's The Light?' in GO! Mailbag. The reply said something about a Wide Boy which allowed Game Boy games to be played on a TV screen. This is confusing because in the Game Boy Lowdown in issue three there was a picture of another Wide Boy from Sunsoft which was a magnifier! Could you please explain this?



Here's Game Boy fan Ray Marson of Kirkstall, Leeds, showing off his obvious artistic talents!

I also have a few questions:

1. When will the Wide Boy (the TV screen one) be available in Ireland?
2. How much will it cost?
3. When will the Hyper Boy be available in Ireland?
4. How much will that cost?
5. Could you tell me more about the Wide Boy?
6. Please can I have a T-shirt?
7. Which is the best - Pitfighter, Battletoads or Tiny Toons?

Please answer these questions as they are puzzling me and my friend. Keep up the good work.

RORY O'KELLY,
Co Sligo, Ireland

PS Are back issues available?

1. It won't be, unless you're a Game Boy developer.

2. Nothing, if you're a Game Boy developer.

3. It's available from mail order companies - give 'em a call.

4. About forty quid.

5. Certainly. The Wide Boy is a well hard and dead expensive piece of kit that lets you play Game Boy games on the TV. It plugs into a Japanese Nintendo, and you slot the cart into the port on the side of the Wide Boy. You'll never be able to buy one, 'cos they cost a fortune and are only available to Nintendo developers. Sorry.

6. No.

7. How do we know - Pitfighter isn't even finished yet!

And if it's back issues you're looking for, drop a line to: CVG/GO! Subscriptions, PO Box 500, Leicester LE99 0AA. There's a nice lady there who'll sort you out!

I WANT GOOD GAMES, BOY!

Dear GO!,

I am about to buy a Game Boy. With the Game Boy, I have thought about buying a few games and, after reading GO!, I think I'll buy Super Mario Land, Terminator 2, Castlevania 2 and Tiny Toons. Are there any more great games that you would recommend to me? If so, please answer.

RAY MARSON,
Kirkstall, Leeds

PS I would just like to say your mag is great for us hand-held owners.

Take a look through the best hand-held mag in the world - everything you need to know is right there in GO!

I WANT TO LOOK A GIFT HORSE IN THE MOUTH

Dear GO!,

May I just say how good your magazine is? Ok, that's it for the ass kissing.

Why don't you sell GO! seperately, as well as giving it away free with CVG? That'd be great for all the hand-held owners who just buy CVG for GO! (like Ken Longton in issue nine) - they can either pay an extra 25p for two magazines or they can buy £1.50 for GO! and buy a Mars bar or something with the change. I'm sure GO! would outsell the other mags anyway.

Also, I agree with Simon Veal (issue seven) and Danny Pots (issue nine) about a Complete Guide to Hand-helds.

STEPHEN HOPE,
Chester-le-Street, Co Durham

PS Why can't people just be happy with the hand-helds they've got, instead of putting the others down?

We've said it before and we'll say it again. We don't want you to pay one red cent for GO! Call us mad, call us crazy, but we just don't care! Until it becomes impossible to do so, go stays at the reasonable price of £0.00 - and that's final!

CARMEN'S CRACKERS 2

Dear GO!,

I am writing to complain about Carmen De Bourgonniere's letter in issue nine of GO!. What on earth does she mean by criticising the Game Gear? Sure, the Game Boy is brilliant games machine but from where did she get the idea that there are less games on the Game Gear than on the Boy? Check out the awesome Master Gear, which allows you to play twice as many games as the Game Boy.

Has she played on a Game Gear? With comments like that, I don't think so!

HAND-HELDS ARE FAB - IT'S OFFICIAL!

Dear GO!,

I have been reading your magazine for the last five issues and I am bored with people writing in just to say how good their hand-held is. When it comes right down to it they are all good in their own way. Personally I prefer the Game Gear, but this is how I rate all the hand-helds:

GAME BOY

The Game Boy has an excellent software base but is let down by the slow, small LCD screen. Also, the controls are too small and many add-ons are needed for night play or to even have a GG sized screen.

LYNX

This is probably the best for the money with an excellent screen but is too big and has a small software base and no useful add-ons. Cartridges are too flimsy.

LYNX 2

As above the machine is still uncomfortable to hold but is an improvement. A good buy.

GAME GEAR

This is very comfortable to hold and has a good software base. The screen is of a good quality (contrary to popular belief). Although perhaps not as good graphically as the Lynx, the games are better.

PC ENGINE GT

the machine has too high a price and too small a software base. Also it has the same small controls as the Game Boy.

To summarise, if you want loadsagames, get the Game Boy. If you want action and puzzle titles - and colour - get the Gear. Finally, if you want quality but few games, get the Lynx.

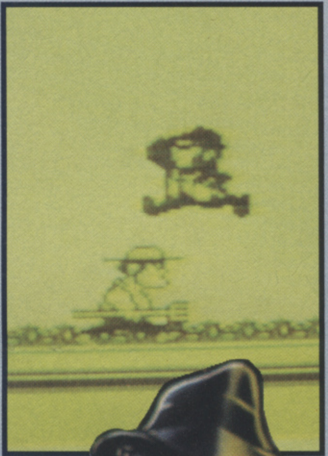
"A strange license to pick up, but Blues Brothers has been turned into a surprisingly good platform game. Sprites are detailed and jolly and the music is a real treat. The action is fast and furious, with lots to collect and tons of baddies abound, aching to be sent packing. Blues Brothers will have you pulling on your shades and pork pie hats faster than you can say 'We're on a mission from God!'"

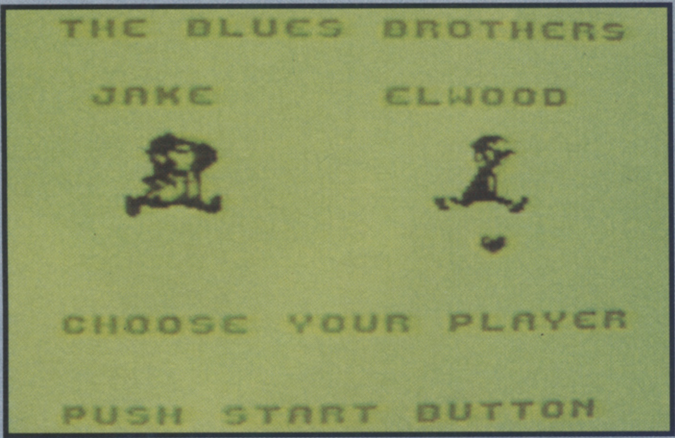
PAUL RAND

Ever wondered what the life of a blues singer is like? Preparing for the big shows, dodging screaming fans, trying to regain your equipment in time for the concert whilst dodging traffic cops. This is the predicament that Jake and Elwood Blues find themselves in - Josh McKenzie, the town sheriff has decided he wants no such goings-on in his town, so he's told the brothers to get out of the state or else he'll keep their gear. But jake and Elwood don't take kindly to threats, so off they set to reclaim their equipment.

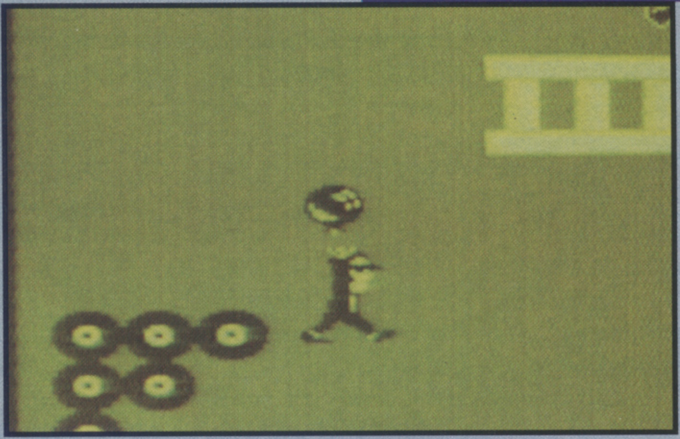


GAMEBOY- £24.99

THE BLUES BROTHERS



Who ya gonna choose -- big Jake or skinny Elwood?



RUBBER BAND

The Blues Brothers only have a small band, so not much equipment, which is thankful seeing as you're the one who has to find it all. There's a different instrument on each level, and you've got to find them to finish that stage. The instruments include a guitar, headphones, microphones, speaker and a spotlight - get them all and the concert can go ahead!

TOOLS OF THE TRADE

Jake and Elwood are not totally alone in their quest. They can use a couple of objects that they find lying around, such as springs which help the brothers to jump higher and boxes which they can pick up and throw at approaching baddies.

GOLDEN DISCS

If you want to get some points, get some items! Pick up the following bits and bobs for big bonuses:

RECORDS - These are worth one point each and collecting 100 gets you an extra energy heart!

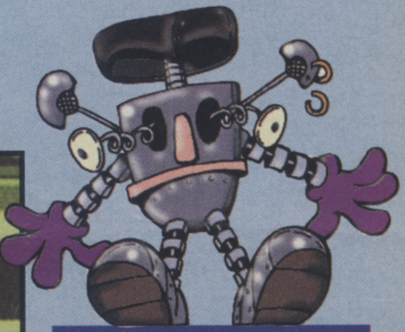
BROKEN RECORDS - Not as useless as you may think! These give you ten points when picked up.

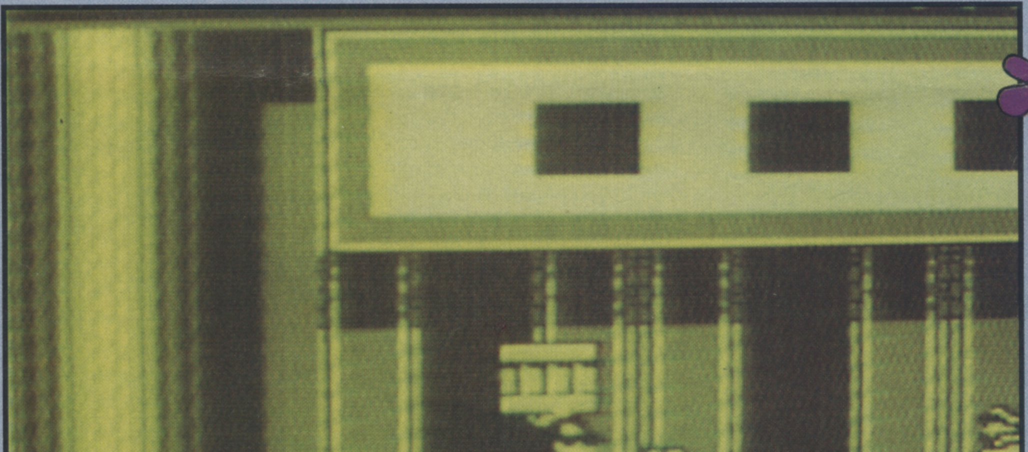
HEARTS - Grab these to get extra energy.

HAT AND GLASSES - Put 'em on for an extra life.

SHORT OR TALL?

If you can't decide which brother is tops don't worry, 'cos you can use either of them. There's no difference at all between the two characters, other than their appearance - Jake is the small, fat bloke and Elwood is the tall, scrawny feller.





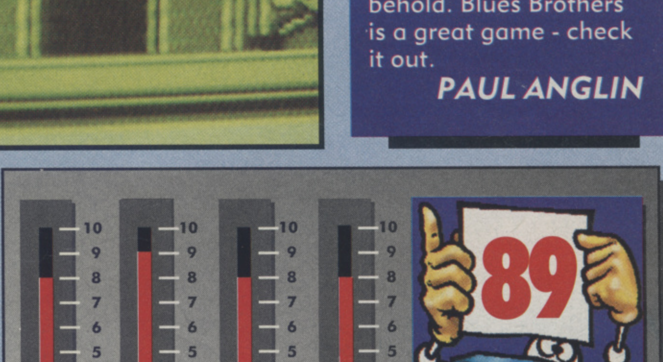
I was absolutely gaga about the film, and so I couldn't wait for this game. And I'm pleased to say that it more than delivers. The graphics are great, managing to capture the the look of the movie, and the platform action is a joy to behold. Blues Brothers is a great game - check it out.

PAUL ANGLIN

COP THIS

Not many people want the Blues Brothers to play the concert, judging by the amount of baddies after your blood! There's the cops of course, then there's Ringo, a demented farmboy who's quite handy with a pitchfork. Marylin the cook knows a thing or two about using plates as deadly weapons, while Bob may look like a happy tourist, but he's got one mean streak!

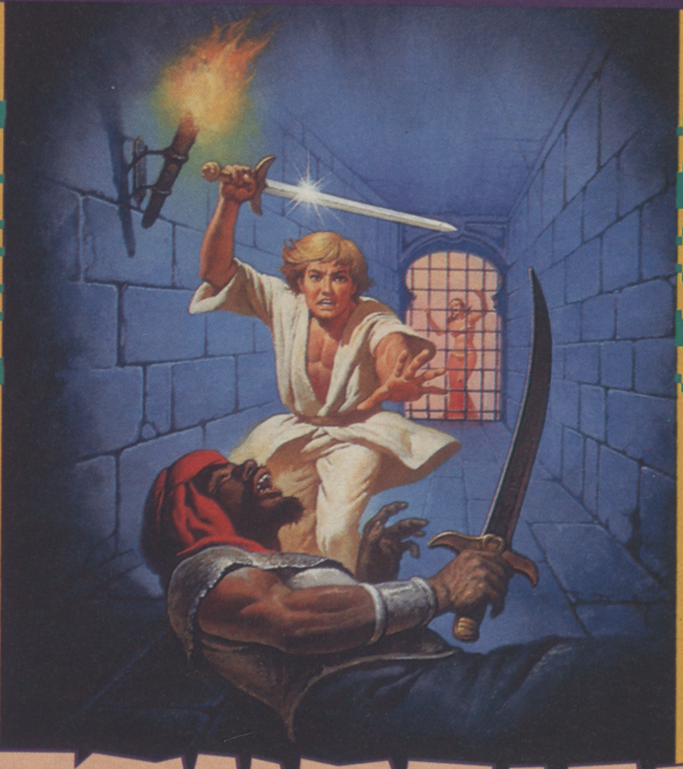
Leaping over the rooftops - not normally the sort of pastime you'd link with a top blues singer. Oh well...

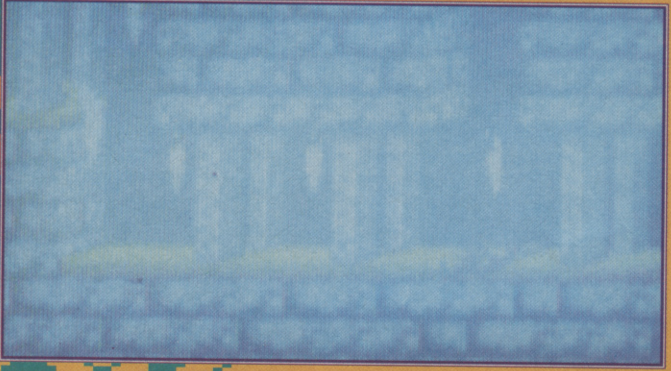


Prince

Oh lordy! The beautiful princess has been kidnapped by the Grand Vizier Jaffar and unless he agrees to marry him within the hour she'll be subjected to a fate worse than death, rapidly followed by death itself! Not a way to start a relationship perhaps, but if the Prince Of Persia has his own way, there won't be a relationship to start. So enter the castle of the venomous Vizier and take on his many guards as well as avoiding the sinister traps littering the castle dungeons. It's been said that only one person has ever left Jaffar's pad alive - and he spontaneously combusted soon after. Don't let that happen to the Prince Of Persia.

GAME GEAR- £29.99





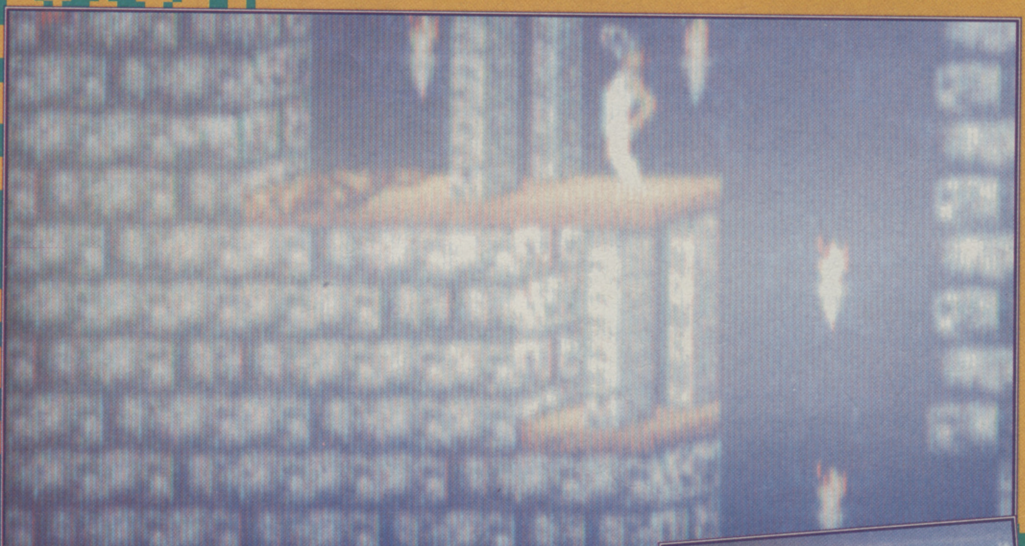
He's a fit lad, this Prince Of Persia - just look at him climb up that wall! Spiderman or wot?

SEEK THE SWORD

The first thing you'll need to do once inside the castle is find something with which to defend yourself, because without a sword you're a sitting duck for Jaffar's goons. There is a sword on level one, but you'll have to search for it - and keep out of the way of the guards until it's safely in your possession!

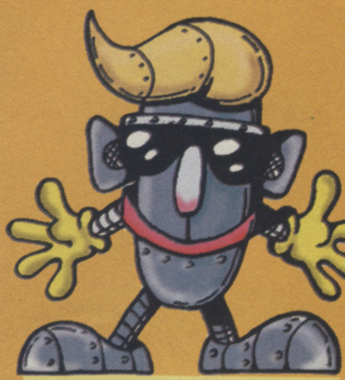
POACHIN' POTIONS

Vials mean smiles in Prince Of Persia - at least, most of them do. They contain potions, most of which will top up your energy of add another notch to your health bar, but some of them will actually drain you of your strength. Learn to distinguish between the different types and you're laughing - fail to do so and you'll probably end up as just another skeleton in Chez Jaffar



ALL THE TRAPPINGS

Watch where you're walking as you traverse the many levels in Prince Of Persia. Jaffar has laid an assortment of traps to trip you up every step of the way. False floors open up to send you crashing to your death, hidden spikes pop up to turn you into a kebab and massive slicers chop you in two! Whatever happened to being chained to the dungeon wall?



"There hasn't been a bad conversion of Prince Of Persia yet, and the Game Gear version doesn't break this marvellous run. Great animation of the sprites, and fast action combine with the need to make a map and, above all, think things through. Grab Prince Of Persia as soon as you can!"

PAUL RAND

DRAGON'S LAIR

Here we GO! with part two of our incredible Dragon's Lair solution, supplied by none other than the producers of the game, Elite! It's so big, we've had to split it up into three sections, with the final instalment coming your way next issue.

11. The upper portion of the game map is much bigger than the lower, but most of the problems are similar to ones you have already encountered. The first two crystals are easy to get - climb up the tree on the start screen and jump when at the top. Climb back down again and walk right onto the next screen.

12. Jump onto the mining cart and then jump up again as soon as it starts to move. You should land on the sphinx building. Move around the building, collecting the crystals and once finished, exit the screen by jumping left. Return right and the mining cart should have returned.

Jump onto the cart and, as it moves, collect the crystals on the way by jumping up and forward as before. Also, remember you can collect any crystals you miss by waiting for the cart to do a return journey.

13. Jump off upwards at the other end and collect all the crystals on the sphinx building. Jump right over the moving spike. Climb into the tree and move right onto the next screen, entering in the top-left hand corner. Here you will see a wheel in the air with a hat moving around underneath it. When the hat comes close, jump onto it, then off again onto the wheel, collecting the crystal on your way.

Jump back onto the hat and let it take you around, towards the next crystal. Jump off the hat to get this crystal and land on the tornado moving up and down. This will take you up to get another crystal. Once you have got this, jump right onto the next tornado to get the other crystal, then walk right onto the next screen.

14. Walk right onto the conveyor belt and let it take you right towards the skull. As you reach the skull, press to move left. This should stop you moving and avoid hitting the spikes. Jump up onto the moving skull and right onto the girder, moving right onto the next screen.

15. Here you can see more girders moving about. Stand on the left ledge and wait for the lower girder to come close. When it does, jump right onto it the quickly jump right again, over the post and right again to land on the right side ledge. Stand below the moving platforms and jump upwards, from one to the other, then left onto the top platform.

Jump onto the moving platform to the left and move across, jumping and collecting the crystals on the way. When you reach the end, wait for the platform to reach the left-hand side, then jump left onto the stationary platform to get the other crystal. Walk left onto the previous screen to get the crystal which you missed under the tree. Return right the same way as you came but jumping right at the top, onto the next screen instead of moving down on the skulls.å

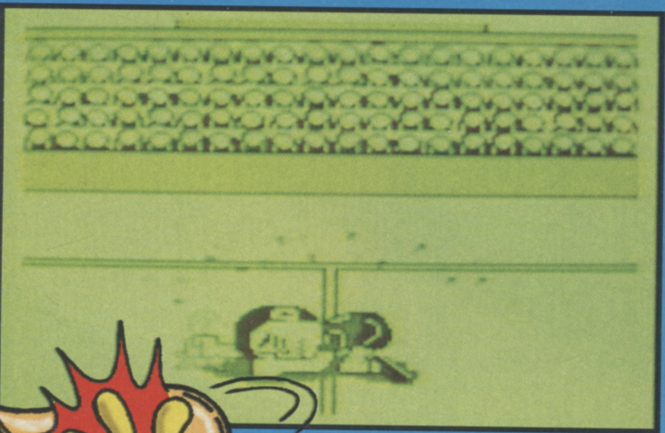
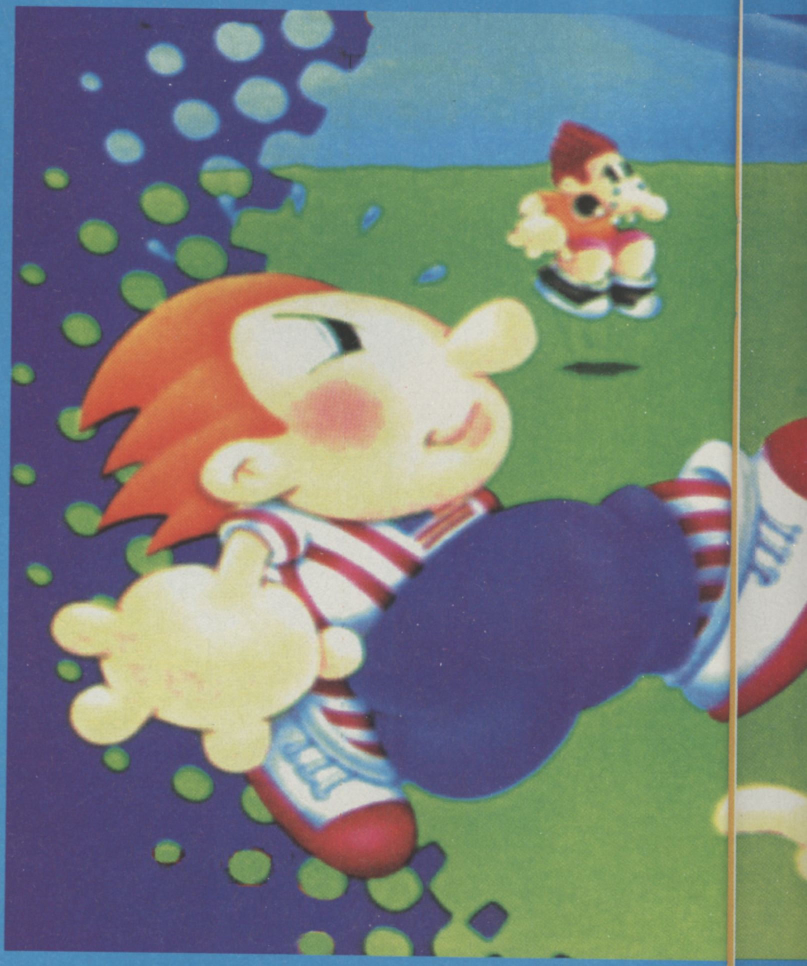
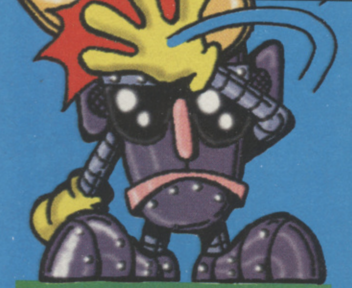
SOCCER

The USA soccer team has made it through to the World Cup Championship Tournament for the first time in history. And if you can believe that, you'll believe anything. Anyway, they're there and now they face the five most awesome teams in the world if they want to win and face the mysterious All-Star Team. Do you have the soccer skills to take the yankee boys through to World Cup glory? Do you have the talent to succeed? Have you made sure the cheerleaders and hot-dog stalls are in place? Are you ready to chew lots of gum and make a fool of yourself from the touchline? Game on!

GAMEBOY- £24.99

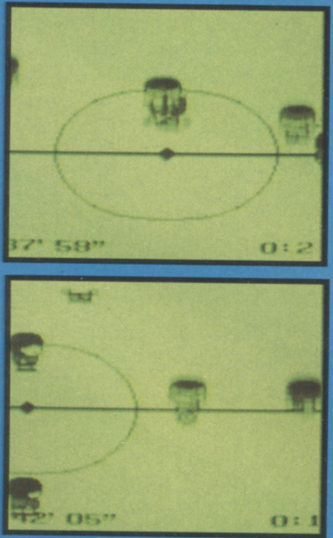






"Awful! Awful! Awful! Quite how the programmers had the nerve to shove this load of old garbage onto Game Boy cartridge is just beyond me. Soccer Mania is a shivering wreck of a game to be avoided at all costs."

PAUL RAND



It's fast footy action all the way in Soccer Mania - pity the game is a pile of doggy doo.

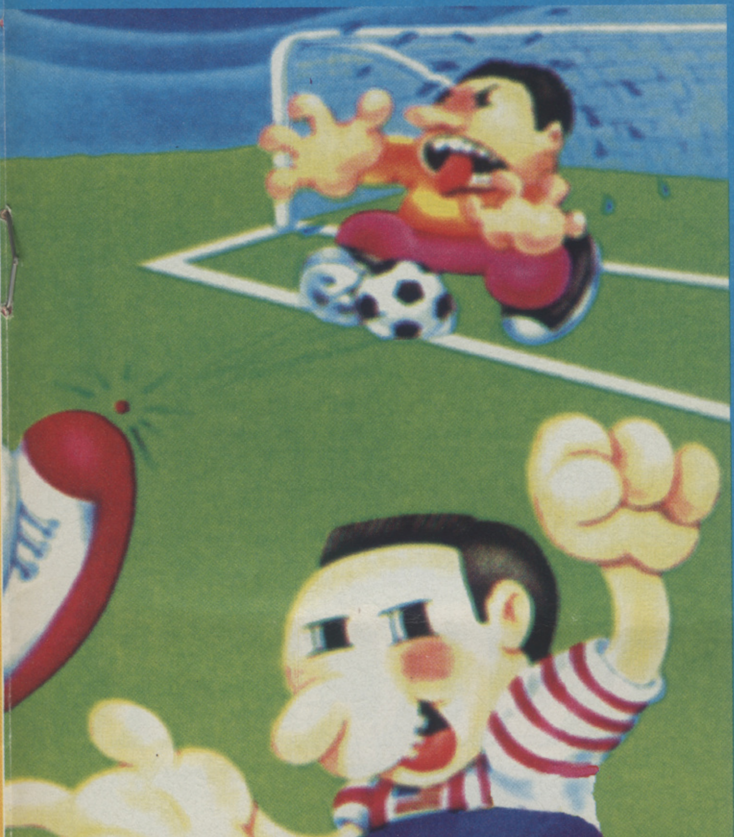
OAP ALL STARS

Right, you need to be warned about this. This game is all about America getting through to the climax of the World Cup, and so you have to play them AGAINST England. It doesn't matter if you happen to think that America are complete crap at footy (and you'd be right) but that's the team you're controlling and that's all there is to it. Stare at the options screen in dismay while looking at all the teams you CAN'T play and you'll cry like Gazza because you ended up with a load of corn-on-the-cob cretins who think a great way to play football is to wear loads of padding, run around with the ball, take a break every sixty seconds and earn loads of cash at the SuperBowl.

GERIATRIC ELEVEN

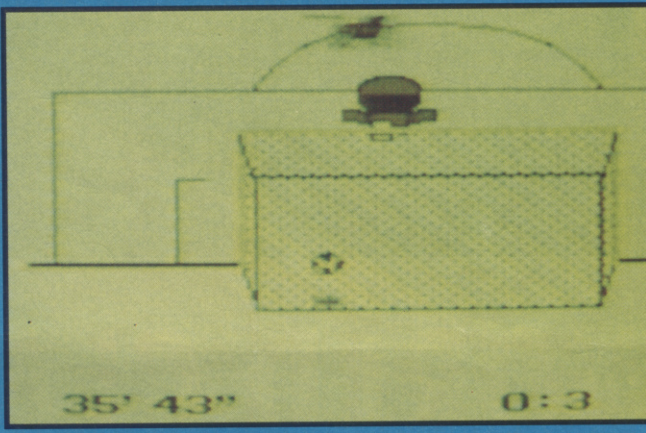
Right, let's not beat about the bush. This game is SLOW. It's..so...slow....it's.....making......me........drowsy just writing about it. The players lumber round in slow motion and by the time they finally get to wherever the hell the ball was it's long gone. So you go lumbering after it again and eventually catch up. Guess what? You've got possession! How do you know this? Easy - your boyo starts to spray head sweat in every direction as he ambles up the field and punts the ball in the direction of the goal. Exciting, eh?

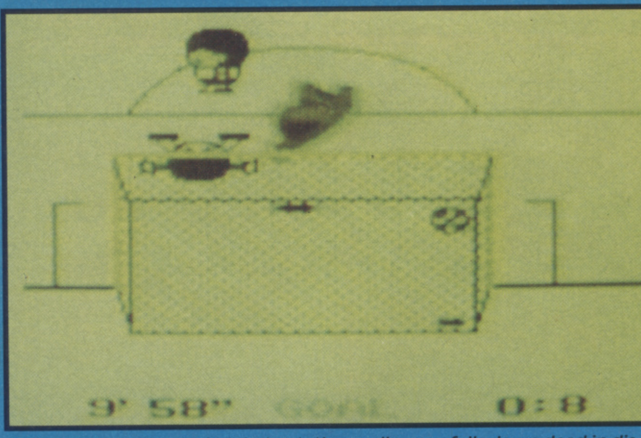
MANIA



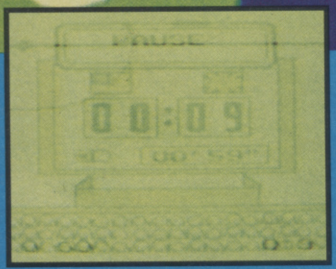
SLOW-STARTERS SELECT

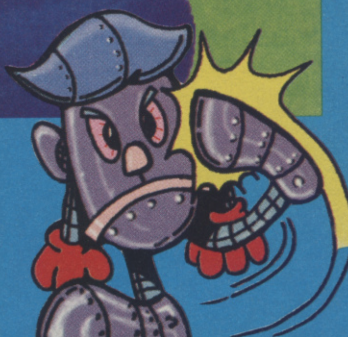
Controlling your player couldn't be easier - as soon as you accept that you can hardly control him at all! Basically the control method on Soccer mania is so bad you'll almost swear you aren't playing at all. Luckily, the computer's fairly crap as well - so the pair of you will wander aimlessly around the field desperately trying to catch up with the ball, not knowing quite what to do with it once you've got it. All of this adds up to make the game as exciting as a Saturday afternoon in the Sock Shop, and you'll probably end up kicking the cartridge around the living room for a bit of a laugh.

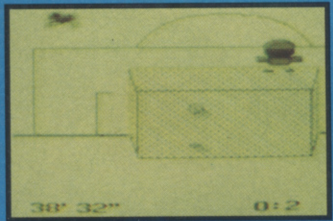




As the ninth goal goes in (oh dear), the goalkeeper falls down dead in disgrace. At the score, not the game. But he'd be forgiven for either.





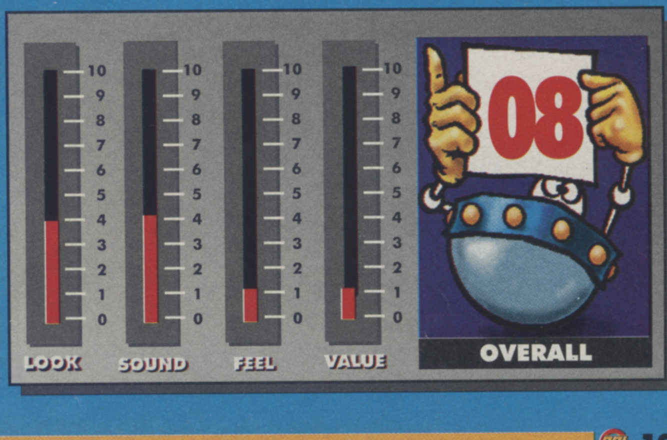


And the number ten shoots! He scores! It's a goal! Who cares? Nobody! Oh well.

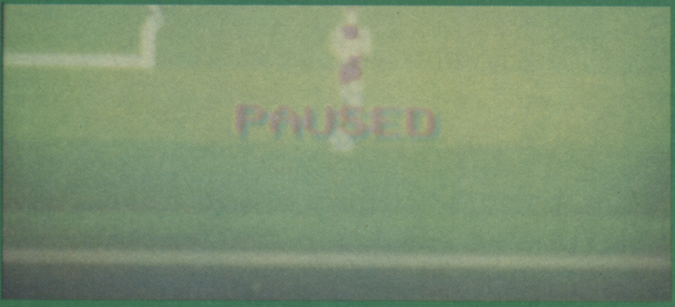
THANKS...to Shekhana Consoles (081 340 8565) for the review cartridge.

"This could just be the most frustrating and generally bloody awful hand-held game I've ever played. Nothing quite comes close to its shambling sadness and the only thing I can recommend about the game is that you can always turn it off. Avoid like the Jimmy Hill."

TIM BOONE



Five minutes gone with the scre at 0-0 and, erm, nothing of any excitement has happened as yet. Sorry.



The crowd are in full voice, awaiting the arrival of the two teams - and here they come! What a match this set to be between the Southampton Sunday League and the Portsmouth Part-Timers. Well okay, so World Class Soccer is an international footy game but the principle is the same. Up until now, the Lynx hasn't had one soccer sim - does the first example of the genre make it onto the scoresheet? Or will it be hobbling off at the thirteenth minute with chronic groin strain?

LYNX- £29.99

WHAT A JERK

World class Soccer attempts something quite bold on the Lynx; it tries to switch from one position on the screen to another very quickly in an attempt to keep the game moving at a decent pace. Unfortunately it doesn't at all work and the result is extremely jerky and generally horrid scrolling.

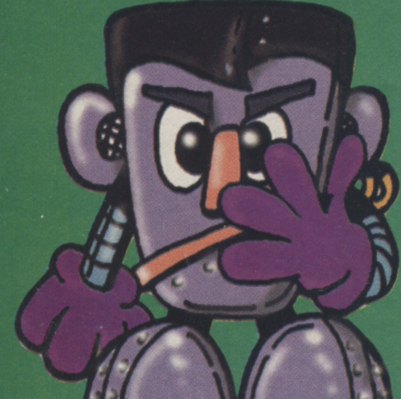
WORLD CLASS SOCCER



World Class Soccer could have been top of the League, but as it turns out it languishes in Division Three. Graphics are jerky and you just can't follow what's happening on-screen. An attempt at clever programming which has resulted in a generally unplayable soccer sim.

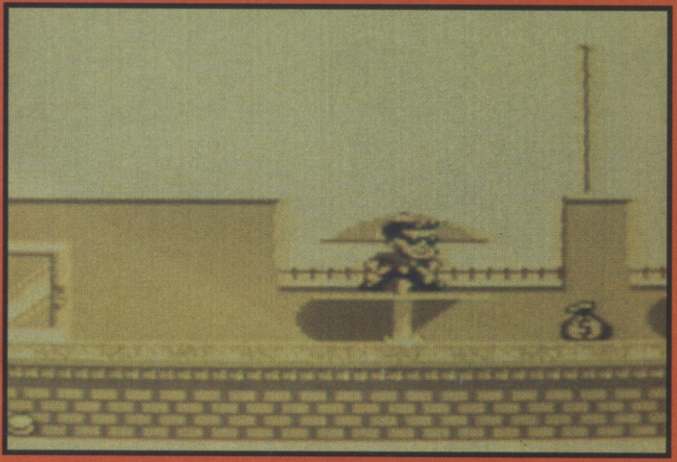
NOTHING FOR A PAIR...

Hudson Hawk takes place inside a HUGE city building stuffed full of walkways, elevators, security guards, hidden traps, perils, bags and bags of money and a few priceless treasures. Now it doesn't take Brain of Britain to work out which ones to aim for and which to avoid, but sometimes old judder jaw can get into a right old mess. No two levels are even remotely the same, which means there's plenty of exploring to be done before you can reach the ultimate goal of the game - and we'd be spoiling it to tell you what that is!

He's cool, he's hard, he's handsome and suave. He's, um, well he's a bit of a tea leaf actually - and his name's Hudson Hawk! Yes indeedy, you might just remember the all action thrills 'n' spills film starring Bruce Willis which came out earlier this year and disappeared fairly soon after. This was a bit of a shame because the movie wasn't really that bad. So how does the game measure up? Is it a runaway catburgling winner or a load of old blag swag which ought to be sent down for five years? Let's find out, why don't we?

GAMEBOY- £24.99

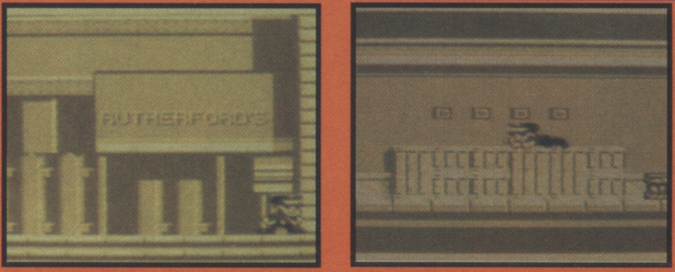


Ooh, look! A large bag of money to do with what you will. Hurrah!

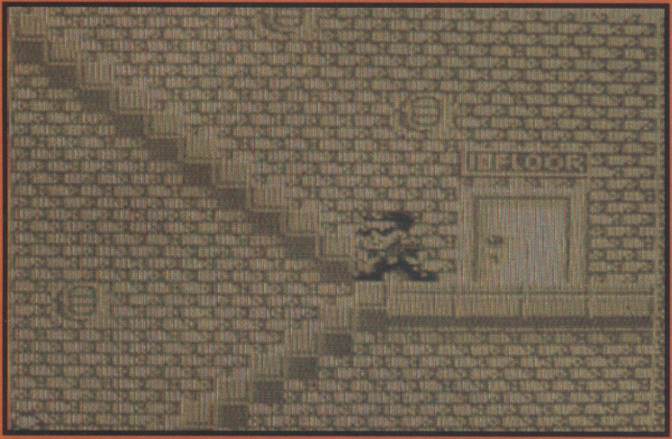
HUDSON
HAWK

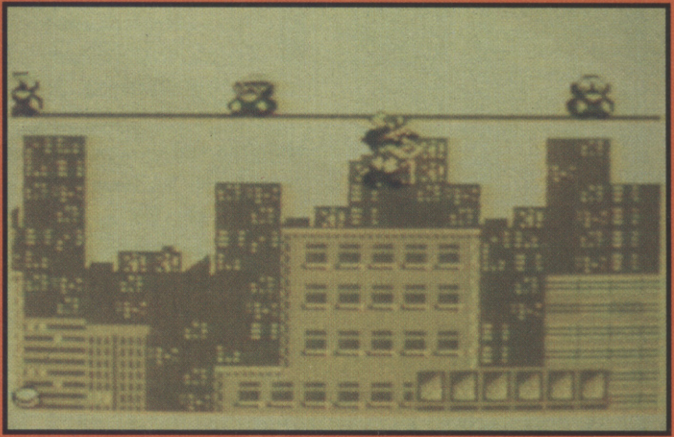
IT'S A BRUCIE BONUS

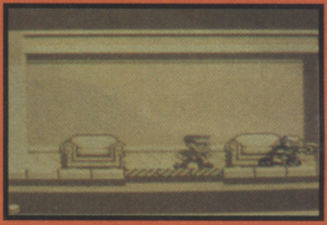
For those of you too young to remember, Bruce Willis became famous through a fairly crap detective comedy show called Moonlighting. He did odds and sods after that, sang a few awful records which your mum might own and then got his really big break: a starring part in the awesome action movie Die Hard. Overnight he was a megastar - and the follow-up Die Hard 2 made even more money than the first film. In between Bruce played a few other roles, none of which really came up to that much, and his best part was probably playing a baby in Look Who's Talking. Well, actually he was the baby's voice. Let's face it, he's not going to stay a Hollywood megastar for long with a dummy stuffed in his gob, is he?



Okay, so the film was a pile of old donkey's waddyacallem, but that hasn't stopped those Ocean lads from knocking out a more than decent conversion - go for it, Hudson!







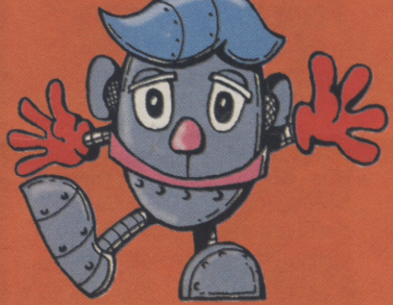
A most pleasant living room set-up - but who's that little feller in the corner? We should be told...

NICE TO SEE YOU...

Old Hudson's a bit of a lad when it comes to light fingers. He can lift the loot with the best of them, and has made quite a name for himself as a cat burglar. Trouble is, some ne'er-do-well blighters by the name of Darwin and Minerva Mayflower have got to hear about his skills, and that's when the trouble starts. They've hatched some crazy plot to build a machine which can make gold, and go about recruiting the man Hawk to pinch the necessary parts! Now old Hudsie's having none of this, until they kidnap his pal and threaten all sorts of nasties. What's a poor old burglar to do, eh? Is he going to pinch the stuff they need or just pretend to and thwart the dastardly pair instead? Me, I'd just pinch the stuff and skip the country - but our main man's certainly not about to do that!

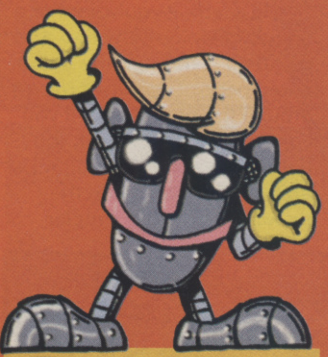
...TO SEE YOU NICE

Our Hawkie's a bit nimble when it comes to nicking bits and bobs. He can run, jump, climb, swing, crawl, scratch his bottom, say the alphabet backwards and just about everything else you'd expect from a roistering, burgling boyo. Not only that, Hud's got a knack of finding all sorts of nooks and crannies to crawl in and out of to evade annoying security guards, female fans and other pests. And when he gets sick of all that rushing about there's always a handy elevator to save a bit of time travelling floor to floor. Trouble with this method is that it leaves our boy open and vulnerable, but then again you can't have it all...



"I wasn't exactly a big fan of the movie, but Hudson Hawk is a decent enough platform romp featuring some decent graphics and a fair old challenge. You'll probably enjoy it more if you liked the film, but there are better Game Boy romps around. Be careful."

TIM BOONE



"There are plenty of challenging platform games on the hand-held Nintendo now, and here's another which doesn't exactly blow the others away. Nice graphics (Bruce is hilarious!) and well tuned gameplay do lift it from the crowd - but only just. Check Hudson out before parting ith your cash."

NBA All-Stars Challenge 2 gives you the chance to play against the best the NBA can offer, in six different games designed to test your skill and nerve. GAME BOY £24.99

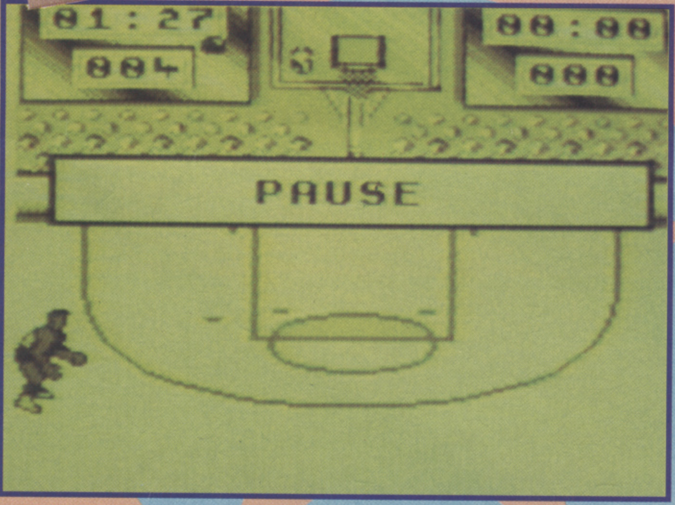
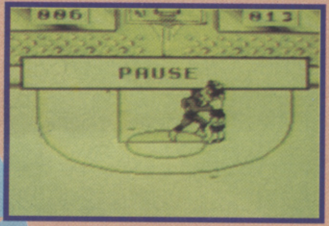
JONAHS AHOY

In the first game it's just you and an opponent battling it out at one end of the court. Choose the players from a list of twenty-seven (count 'em) NBA all-stars, all of whom have their own stats lists. Apart from theTournament, this is the most competitive of the six games.

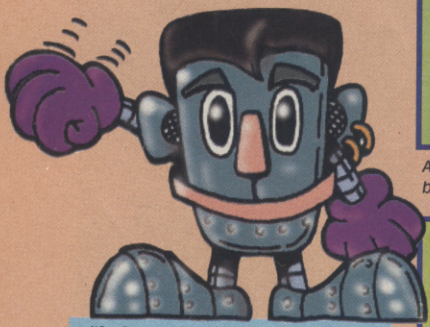


All the fun of the real game - without being bundled over, whacked on the head with a basketball or getting burns from falling on the floor!



SHOOT FOR FREE

The basketball equivalent of a penalty shootout, the aim is to get the ball through the unhindered hoop. The cursor moves around the basket and, if you can time your shot right, the ball will float into the net, miss and you'll spoon it into the crowd. Couldn't be simpler.



"I thought Acclaim were just gluttons for punishment after the original NBA effort, but this is a vast improvement. Sprites are nicely drawn and move around very well, and the sound includes the squeaking of trainers on the court. It doesn't take that long to master all the events, but the two player mode is a lot of fun."

DUNKIES

Position yourself on the halfway line and, when that whistle blows, run to the net and perform one of six spectacular slamdunks to score marks out of ten from three judges. A bit like Hot Doggin' without the skis, this event is far better if you play against a friend.

GET CROSS

In this one, cursors appear on the ground in and around the area, and it's down to you to get there and get your shot off before the cursor moves on. Definitely the most hectic of the lot, but certainly a good laugh.

THREE FOR FREE

You're given a number of balls at five different positions outside the three point circle and you have the supreme task of getting them in the net. There's no cursors - just jump, shoot and hope. And to make things difficult, there's a time limit chasing you all the way.

"The original NBA All-Stars was a bit of a travesty, but Acclaim have done a much better job on the sequel. Lots of different characters to choose from and a variety of events, each one enjoyable and certainly loads of fun when you play against a pal. Give it a shot, why not?"

THE BIG NAME

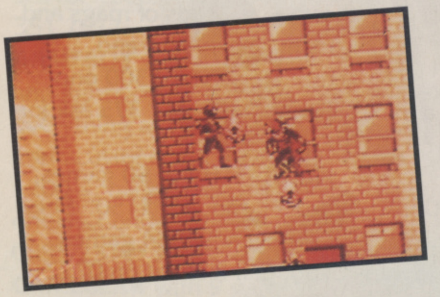
Acclaim are no slouches when it comes to picking up the biggest licenses to convert to Game Boy! They've nabbed an astonishing half-dozen top names and are busily adding the final touches to games based on each, in time for the busy Autumn buying season!

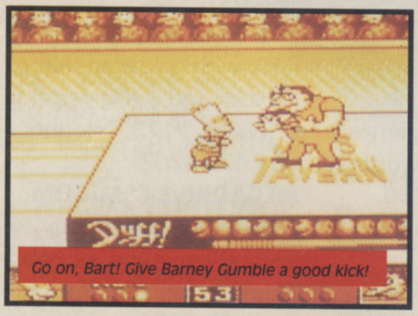
Probably the hottest of the lot is the sequel to their mega-selling WWF. Called WWF Superstars 2, players can choose from six of the top WWF lads, including Hulk Hogan, Macho Man Randy Savage and The Undertaker, to fight normal matches, tag-team bouts and the TV favourite, Steel Cage, in which the battlers slug it out in a fifteen foot tall cage - and have to climb over the top to win!

There seems to be no letup in the popularity of American wrestling - especially now that ITV are showing WCW World Championship matches on Saturday afternoons, so WWF Superstars 2 should do rather well.

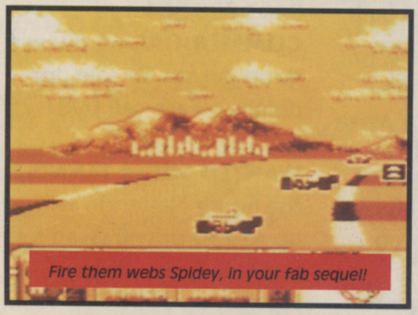
Boxing fans won't be losing out either. Large boxer-turned vicar-turned back to boxer George Foreman stars in George Foreman's KO Boxing, a portable pugilist's dream in which you view the action in over-the-shoulder 3D, much the same as the old Punch Out! coin-op. Rollock around in the ring with a variety of opponents, each of which display their own personal skills and characteristics. Ten rounds of three minutes each is the order of the day as you take the Punching Preacher through the ranks to the World Heavyweight title itself!

Fans of the more direct approach to fighting will be pleased to hear that the third instalment in the Double Dragon saga is on its way. Jimmy and Billy Lee strut their

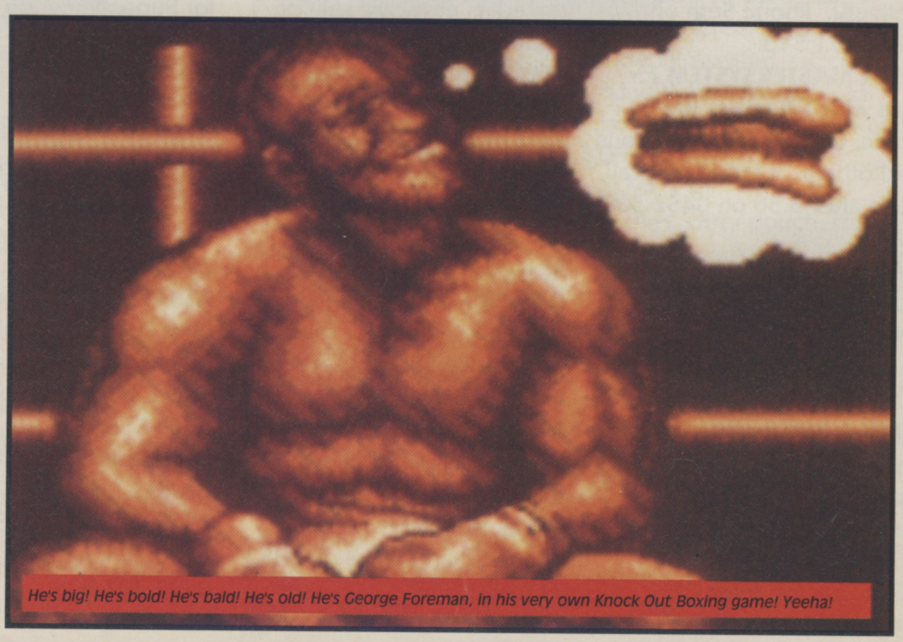




Go on, Bart! Give Barney Gumble a good kick!



Fire them webs Spidey, in your fab sequel!



He's big! He's bold! He's bald! He's old! He's George Foreman, in his very own Knock Out Boxing game! Yeeha!

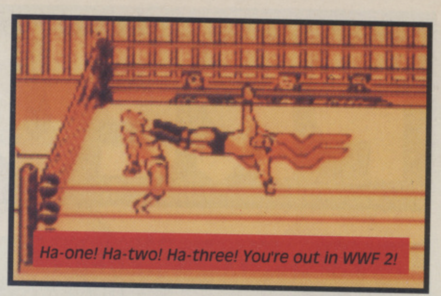
street fighting stuff in Double Dragon III - The Rosetta Stone, in which the kick and punch their way around the globe looking for the powerful crystal of the title whilst dealing out death to scores of baddies.

Double Dragon III, while staying faithful to the ages old DD formula of horizontally scrolling beat 'em up thrills and spills, introduces new features such as the ability to enter shops and buy new items and weapons. As you can tell from these screenshots, Acclaim have also spruced up the graphics somewhat because, let's face it, the sprites in the previous games looked as though they'd been bingeing on burgers!

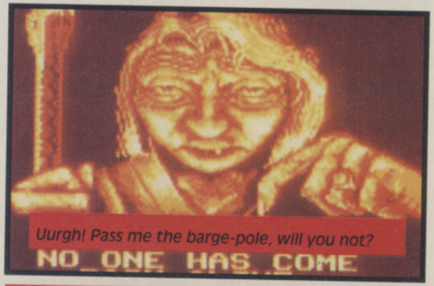
If it's cartoon fun and frolics you're after, there's a duet of top titles coming your way! The old web-slinger himself, Spiderman, is making a comeback on the little Nintendo! In The Amazing Spiderman 2, Spidey has awoken from a trance to find that most of his super-powers have gone! Of course, Spiderman's got to regain them, which means a five level blast through five city levels, taking the web-head to areas such as the Factory and the Empire State Building! Looks like this one's going to be as brill as the original!

And have a cow, man! if it ain't the latest Simpsons spectacular! Bart's a contestant in the rave TV gameshow The Juggernauts USA in Bart vs The Juggernauts, an eight level romp through Springfield with young Bartholomew J competing in various events, such as wrestling at Moe's Tavern and tests of strength in Krustyland.

Being Bart, he'll be looking to complete each event as sneakily as possible, and as well as the main events, bonus rounds pop up which boost Bart's points even further! Bart vs The Juggernauts is going to be one of the biggest licenses this Autumn, so keep a close eye on these pages over the next month or so!



Ha-one! Ha-two! Ha-three! You're out in WWF 2!

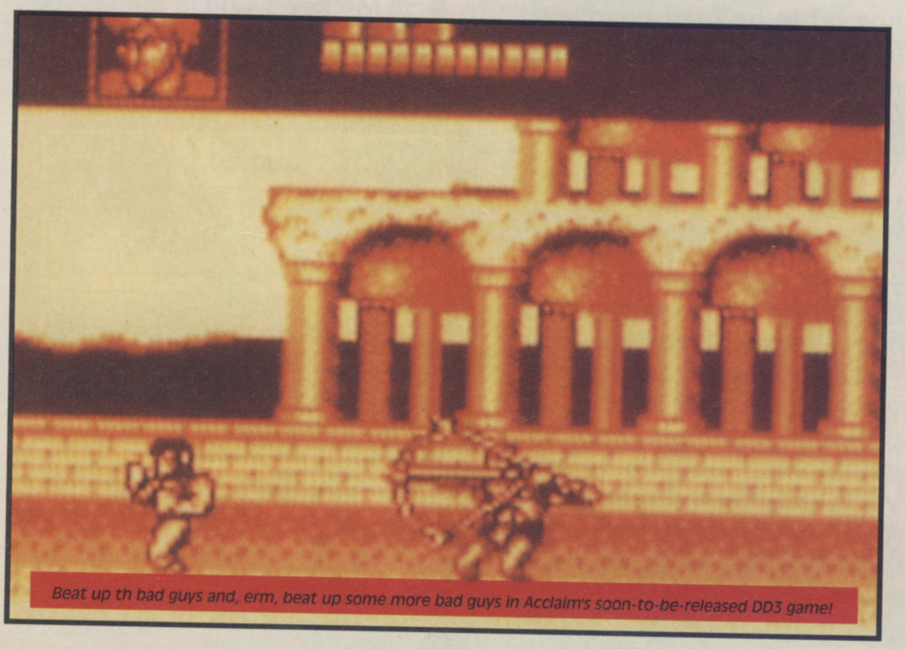


Uurgh! Pass me the barge-pole, will you not?

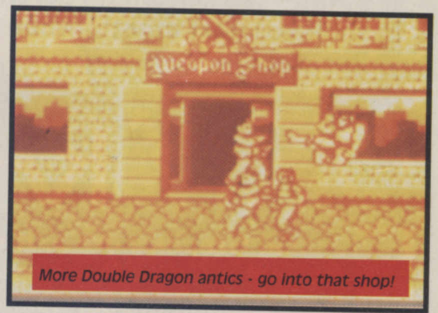
Take a look at this superlative selection of cracking carts - they'll all be coming your way in two shakes of a camels whatsits - and you can see Exclusive Reviews of them all, courtesy of your favourite mag for hand-helds - GO! Stay tuned...

A sextet of smashers, we think you'll agree. All of these crcarts will be making an appearance between September and November - and you'll get to see Exclusive Reviews of the lot over the next couple of months, only in the world's best mag for hand-helds, GO!

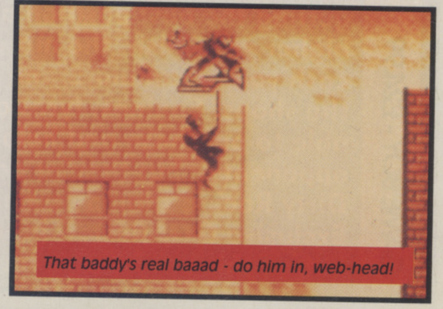
GAMES!



Beat up th bad guys and, erm, beat up some more bad guys in Acclaim's soon-to-be-released DD3 game!



More Double Dragon antics - go into that shop!



That baddy's real baaad - do him in, web-head!

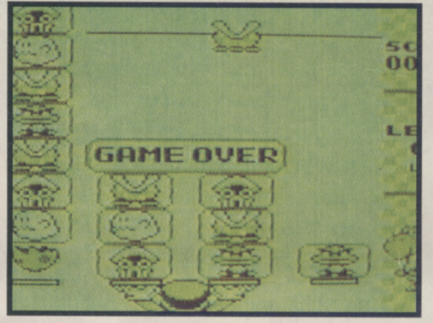
YOSHI

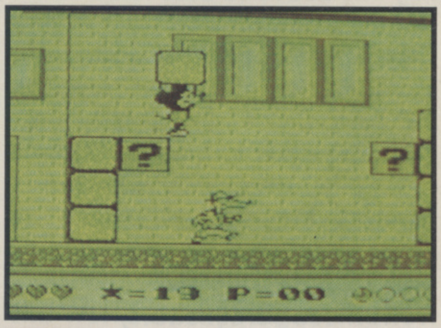


GAME BOY - £24.99

If you've seen the amazing Super Mario World on the Super Nintendo then you'll already have met Yoshi - well now he's set to star in his own game! No collecting coins and growing bigger in this one though; Yoshi is a puzzler in which, aided and abetted by Mario, he must join together monsters of the same type. Sounds a bit like Tetris to you? Don't be fooled - there's more to this game than meets the eye. Mazza's at the bottom, juggling plates, and half egg-shells fall down the screen, offering points-a-plenty for piecing shells together!

We've played an almost-complete version of Yoshi and we were dead impressed. Whether or not it topples the all-mighty Tetris from its perch has yet to be seen - and you shall see next month, when Yoshi gets the Exclusive GO! Review!

MICKEY'S CHASE



GAME BOY - £24.99

Mickey Mouse, is back on the Boy in a new adventure! Mickey's pal has been kidnapped, and it's up to Mr Mouse to rescue him in this multi-level Mario style adventure, in which the lucky player gets to control either Mickey or Minnie across a variety of landscapes, encountering chums such as Pluto, and enemies including vicious guard dogs and behatted weasels!

From the early demo cart we got our mitts on, it looks like Mickey's Chase is going to be yet another Disney hit! Loads of levels, a bonanza of bonuses and not-a-small-amount-of nasties to contend with could be well worth watching out for - especially next month, when Mickey's Chase makes its Exclusive appearance in the definitive GO! Review!

DIRTY RACING

GAME BOY - £24.99

Gremlin Graphics are putting the finishing touches to Dirty Racing, a Game Boy version of their successful Supercars. Race around in your souped-up roadster, with the aim of getting the best position at the end of each thrash. The higher you finish, the more money you win and the more cash you accumulate, the better the gear you can buy at the shops. Engines, tyres and turbochargers are all available to purchase and help you get the jump on your opponents - but they're adding extras to their cars too! Dirty Racing should be finished in time for a full and Exclusive GO! Review in the very next issue! Can you miss out on this one? Don't you dare!
